Attorney will avoid conflict

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — An assistant city attorney is dropping his involvement in a proposed lawsuit against the city because he would be representing both parties.

The action already taken was a notice of injury, filed in behalf of a resident of Kirkpatrick Homes. It notified the housing authority and the city the resident is "about to commense a civil action."

CHARLES DOUGLAS was representing the complainant, Misty Aitken, at the time the notice was issued in June. Douglas has been representing the city since his appointment in early May.

Members of the City Council discussed the situation in an executive session at Tuesday night's council meeting. No formal action or discussion took place.

Douglas said Wednesday the situation was not an unusual one for an attorney.

"EVERYONE'S HAD conflicts when they first take over (under a new administration)," Douglas said. "The former city attorneys were involved in a lot of conflicts."

He said he filed the notice because he had a legal obligation to do so. He said Aitken came to him with the complaint in September 1984.

Douglas said the notice of injury must be filed within a year or forfeit the client's cause of action.

"IF I DIDN'T file it, they (his client) could have turned around and sued me," he said.

Douglas said he isn't sure the legal matter is a conflict of interest, anyway.

"It's really filed against the Granite City Housing Authority," he said.

DOUGLAS SAID the Illinois State's Attorney General's Office could give a determination of whether the case is proper.

"The office would probably determine (that) if the case is not a conflict, it is so close to being a conflict that it should be dropped," he said.

City Clerk Robert W. Stevens said Wednesday the notice of injury names both the housing authority and the city. He said even if the housing authority was the only party named, the group is still appointed by the mayor and approved by the City Council.

DOUGLAS SAID HE thinks his actions so far have been ethical.

"If I was to actually pursue this case, it would be a conflict," he said. "Every action I have taken thus far has been handled correctly — I have not done anything improper at all."

Douglas said he was angered the council discussed the matter in executive session.

"THERE SHOULD NOT have been a big deal made of it," he said.

Douglas said he would have explained it to the aldermen in regular session if he had been requested to do so.

"I don't want any implication of misconduct on my part," he said. "I hold myself up in respect concerning matters of ethics."

DOUGLAS SAID HE has written a letter to city officials explaining how the situation came about.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse, who appointed Douglas, did not wish to comment on the matter.

Lichtenberger, 79, dies in house fire

Paul H. Lichtenberger, 79, retired chairman of the First Granite City National Bank and the Colonial Bank of Granite City, died in a fire late Monday afternoon at his family's longtime home in Warsaw, Ill.

His death was attributed tentatively to smoke inhalation. The residence was extensively damaged by flames and smoke.

SINCE RETIRING in April 1979, Mr. Lichtenberger had lived in Warsaw with his sister, Irma Lichtenberger. She left the home on an errand Monday and it was ablaze when she returned.

He was a past president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, Sunset Hills Country Club and Group 9 of the Illinois Bankers Association.

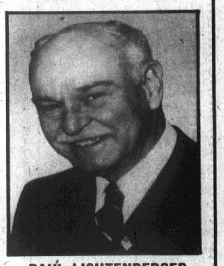

Past exalted ruler of Granite City Elks Lodge 1063, Mr. Lichtenberger was active in many charitable causes, including the Tri-Cities Area United Way and the Salvation Army Tree of Lights program.

MOVING HERE April 15, 1946, to join the First Granite City National Bank, he became a director in 1949 and executive vice president in 1951.

Mr. Lichtenberger was president of the bank from 1968 to 1971 and chairman from 1971 to 1979. At present, he was an advisory director of both banks.

Principal organizer of the Colonial Bank, which opened in 1976, he served as its chairman until 1980.

A PLAQUE installed this April in the Colonial Bank board room named it the Paul H. Lichtenberger Room.

PAUL LICHTENBERGER

A bank spokesman said Tuesday, "We are saddened to learn of the death of our former chairman. Mr. Lichtenberger will be remembered as a leader by example, who sought perfection and expected it of others. Both quick-witted and kind, he will be missed by all."

Born in Warsaw, Ill., he was active in the Concordia Lutheran Church there.

A BACHELOR, he had four brothers and two sisters. He is survived by one sister, Irma, and by nieces and nephews.

Funeral services are being held at 11 a.m. today in Warsaw. An obituary notice appears elsewhere in this issue.

Official uneasy about assessment deal

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The settlement of Granite City Steel's real estate assessment dispute with local taxing bodies has left at least one person uneasy.

Kelly Hogan, president of the Granite City School Board, said he wished the negotiated figures would have been closer to figures obtained in an appraisal done by William Townsley of Chicago.

HOGAN SAID TOWNSLEY'S work resulted in a potential assessed valuation of $98 million for the plant for 1983, or 82 percent more than the $54 million figure decided upon in the settlement.

Granite City Steel will be required to pay more taxes than it does now after the settlement, which established a valuation of $57 million for 1984 and $60 million for the 1985 tax year.

The assessed valuation of property is equal to one-third of the property's estimated actual value, so Townsley's figure of $295 million of the total plant resulted in the recommendation for a $98 million valuation.

"THE BOARD OF REVIEW had a figure of $82 million," Hogan said. "That would mean an actual value of $246 million. "If we take $54 million for 1983, that means an actual value of $162 million, or a difference of $84 million (in total value, or a difference of $28 million in the potential assessment).

"I don't know what Granite City Steel's value is. I'm not an expert in that. That's why we hired Townsley. But if he came up with a figure higher than the one the Board of Review had, why didn't we negotiate for a figure closer to his?"

Hogan voted against the settlement at a special meeting of the school board July 19. The vote was 5-1 in favor of the compromise. Tom Miofsky abstained, having been a former employee of Granite City Steel.

"I WAS THE ONLY one asking any questions," Hogan said. "We spent so much time trying to get $2 million from Belleville Area College (for the North High School building); we even had a public hearing (on the sale).

"But we came in one day and were expected to make a decision right there on the spot on this (assessment) matter."

Hogan said the board did not get Townsley's figures until that day and said he would have liked to have had a few days to look them over.

"But they put a motion on the floor to make the settlement," he said. "When there is a regular motion and a second, you have to vote on the issue in question."

HOGAN EMPHASIZED he was not bitter at anyone, including Granite City Steel.

"I don't want to chase any of our large taxpayers out of town," he said. "But at the same time, I don't want to make it so the common man has to pick up the tab.

Miofsky won't seek bid in next election

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Tom Miofsky will not seek re-election to the Granite City School Board this fall.

Miofsky, 37, announced Tuesday he would not be running in the Nov. 5 election. He said he wants to spend more time with his family.

"I THINK I might have indicated in the past I might run again," Miofsky said. "But I would like to announce at this time that I will not be."

Miofsky has been on the board since being elected in April 1975. He was formerly a teacher in the Collinsville School District.

"My two boys now are 8 and 5," Miofsky said Wednesday. "I think they're getting to the age where they want to see a little more of their dad. As they get older, they will be out with their friends more, so I feel I need to spend more time with them now."

MIOFSKY SAID HIS job now, at Bull Moose Tube Co. in St. Louis, requires him to do a fair amount of traveling.

Asbestos clean-up to start in Venice schools

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

Removal of asbestos from the 1954 addition at the Venice Elementary School may start within the next 10 days, Venice Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers said this week.

Bids from three contracting firms seeking to remove the asbestos hazards were opened Monday night at a special meeting of the Venice Board of Education.

A DISPARITY between the bids was noted, with the proposals ranging from $55,725 to $137,347.

William A. Lemire Associates of St. Louis, which submitted the $55,725 bid, was awarded the contract, contingent on clarification of two points, Vickers said.

Venice School District architect Henry Gabriel resolved one of the points Tuesday after checking the firm's credentials with architects on previous jobs completed by the firm.

ALL ASPECTS of the company's business dealings appeared satisfactory and the firm's past practices meet the qualifications necessary to undertake the job, Vickers quoted Gabriel as saying.

The second point also is expected to be clarified prior to the end of this week.

It calls for inclusion of a "hold harmless" clause in the insurance contract to protect the school district, the superintendent said Wednesday.

OTHER COMPANIES, also from St. Louis, bidding on the Venice project were M. J. Roberts Construction, whose base bid was $97,990, and Superior Systems Inc., $137,347.

The Venice School District was notified June 10 by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency it was one of three districts in Illinois to receive grants — and interest-free loans of equal value — to reduce asbestos hazards in schools.

Through the federal EPA program, Venice was awarded a $76,375 grant and a comparable interest-free loan, an offer quickly accepted by the Venice School Board.

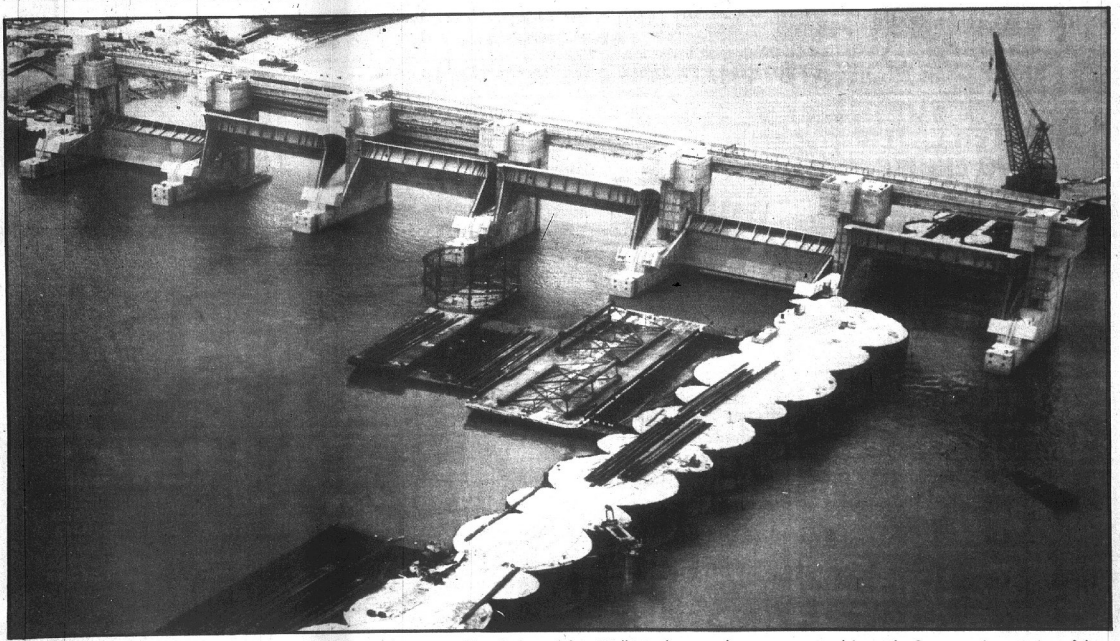

ONLY 341 RECIPIENTS nationwide were selected to receive grants from a total of 4,800 school districts which applied.

Districts in Palatine, a Chicago suburb, and Yorkville, a northern Illinois community, were the only other Illinois districts chosen to receive the federal funds.

Asbestos, once a common insulating material, is a cancer-causing substance; breathing its fibers can lead to lung cancer as well as to scarring of the lungs and other diseases, health authorities say.

INITIALLY, Venice school officials believed the project could not be undertaken until the end of the 1985-86 school year, as little time remained prior to classes resuming Aug. 27.

"The Lemire firm specializes in asbestos removal and they apparently feel that, once we are satisfied that all the guidelines are met, they can start immediately with the work," Vickers said Wednesday.

NEW LOCK AND DAM 26 as it appeared during the weekend. With the first six gate bays completed and operational, work is progressing on the lock and dam replacement project two miles south of the present Alton locks and dam. Well into the second phase of the project, a cofferdam is being built in which another gate bay and the 1,200-foot main lock will be constructed. A second, 600-foot auxiliary lock was approved Aug. 1 by Congress. An overview of the massive project is on page 3.

'Rediscover Cahokia' set Aug. 10-11

"Rediscover Cahokia" annual festivities will be held on Aug. 10 and 11 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site. Admission to the event is free.

This weekend event is held to give visitors a glimpse into life as it was a thousand years ago, when a large prehistoric city flourished here. There were more than 100 mounds on the site during its heyday.

"Hands-on" demonstrations are scheduled continuously throughout the event; they include flintknapping (arrowhead making), pottery making, food preparation, beadwork and celt (stone axe) usage. There will be Indian dancing, storytelling, an "atlatl" (spearthrowing) contest and an Indian-style chunky game.

Visitors can try their stamina by climbing to the top of Monks Mound, which covers 14 acres and is the largest prehistoric structure in the United States. Other sights are the reconstructed "Woodhenge," which was used for astronomical predictions, and an archaeological dig, where excavations are being made at the site of the new museum scheduled to open in 1987. Visitors can take free guided bus tours around the site.

The museum, with information and displays on the prehistoric residents of the area, will be open during the event, and a slide show will be run continuously. Near the museum are two houses similar to the area's prehistoric dwellings and a garden planted with Indian-type foods, all surrounded by a recently built palisade.

Cahokia Mounds Historic Site recently has been named to the United Nations World Heritage List, one of only two prehistoric sites in the U.S. to be so honored.

There will be artifact displays and experts available to answer questions about these or other artifacts.

Picnic tables, refreshments (soda and hot dogs) and a gift shop are available. Representatives of an American Indian group will sell Indian foods.

This ninth annual "Rediscover Cahokia" is sponsored by the Cahokia Mounds Museum Society in cooperation with the Illinois Department of Conservation. For more information, interested persons may write P.O. Box 382, Collinsville, Ill. 62234 or call 344-5268.

The historic site is located eight miles east of St. Louis, off Interstate 70, Highways 111, 159, or Business 40 (Collinsville Road). There are signs along these roads directing visitors to the site.

Elks seeking rezoning for lodge, sports fields

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
Staff writer

A new lodge and sports fields may be in the future for Granite City Elks Lodge 1063.

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will meet at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 28, for an on-site hearing on the Elks' request for rezoning of a 10-acre tract of land in the 4700 block of Maryville Road.

The Church of Christ, owners of the property, and the Elks Lodge, purchasers, want the land rezoned from an R-3 one-family residence district to a B-1 limited business district with a special use permit to build and operate a fraternal lodge with parking facilities and unlighted softball diamond and soccer fields.

"The purchase is pending on the zoning," Elks Exalted Ruler Stan Brown said about the Elks' plans. "We can't do anything until the purchase is made."

If the purchase goes through, Brown estimates it would be five years before a new lodge is built on the site. The current lodge, located at 1329 Niedringhaus Ave., lacks adequate parking and sports facilities, Elks officials said.

Should the Elks put sporting fields on the new property, those fields would be available for public use when the Elks are not using them, Brown said.

"Anything we put on the property will be a benefit to the area," Brown said.

Brown said he hasn't heard of any opposition to the rezoning yet, although he has heard of opposition to previous rezoning efforts for the property. But those plans, he said, involved lighted ball diamonds and the serving of beer outside.

Hospice support group meeting each Wednesday

Hospice of Madison County, an affiliate of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, has received a five-month grant from Tri-Cities Area United Way for its program to provide a support group for family members of cancer patients. The grant covers August through December.

The support group meets every Wednesday at 7 p.m. at SEMC in Granite City. Newcomers can join at any time.

The group assists families with a member diagnosed with cancer, at any stage of the disease. Family members learn to cope with the emotional stress experienced when a loved one is ill.

Members in the support group identify and discuss their problems and share their common reactions, concerns, feelings and questions. In addition, speakers and films provide information on such subjects as home care at some of the sessions.

Barbar Spieker is the Hospice director of volunteers and the support group facilitator. She can be reached at 798-3399.

Connor in critical condition after crash

By BILL WINTER
Staff writer

Ross Connor, 42, Worden, a former Granite Citian hurt severely in a four-vehicle accident Friday evening on Interstate 270 a tenth-mile west of Illinois Route 203, was transferred this week to Jewish Hospital in St. Louis.

His condition is critical, family members said Wednesday. He has kidney, head and lung injuries.

A native of Granite City, Connor resided here 39 years before moving to Worden, where he is superintendent of the the village water and sewer departments.

AT A VILLAGE board meeting Monday night, Supt. of Streets Terry Best was named to temporarily handle his own and Connor's duties.

Worden Mayor Gerald Loemker said it will be a month or longer before Connor can return to work.

Connor, formerly a JC Trucking Co. driver, was on the way to visit his mother, Helen Connor of Granite City, at the time of the accident.

He has 10 sisters and brothers, many of whom live here. He and his wife, Mary, have four children, all living in Worden.

THE CRASH killed two Edwardsville High School students, Stephen Bender, 17, and Robin Johnson, 16, and Richard Bunnell, 60, of north St. Louis County. Connor and Mr. Bunnell were the lone occupants of two of the vehicles.

Miss Johnson's mother, Ruth Rutherford, 42, Edwardsville, who was driving three passengers, is in serious but improving condition at St. Louis University Hospitals. A passenger, Gerald Wills, 33, Edwardsville, is in good condition at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Mrs. LeAnn Crowley Jones, 33, Kansas City, driver of a tractor-trailer that collided with the three autos, is in stable condition at Oliver Anderson Hospital, Maryville. Her husband, Theodore, a passenger in the truck, was unhurt.

WESTBOUND TRAFFIC had stopped due to repair work and lane restrictions farther west. The truck failed to halt in time to avoid the standing vehicles.

Those in the Rutherford car were on their way to a campsite along the Current River in Missouri for a canoe trip sponsored by the First Christian Church of Bethalto. Others in the family already were at the camp.

Mr. Bunnell was returning home from work at the Illinois Power Co. plant under construction in Clinton.

THE AUTOS were the last in a line of traffic that was backed up for a mile and a half behind resurfacing in the vicinity of the I-270 bridge over the Chain of Rocks Canal.

State Police Trooper James Hall said the truck left no skid marks on the highway. He is preparing to forward results of his investigation to the Madison County state's attorney.

Fred Bartelsmeyer, assistant District 8 highway engineer, said remaining I-270 road repairs will start at 6 p.m. daily rather than 2 p.m.

ALTHOUGH STATE Transportation Department policies on construction signs and traffic routing are being reviewed due to the accident, there were signs on I-270 indicating the construction ahead.

Visibility at the scene was adequate, he commented, attributing the collision to "a problem with the truck or its driver."

FOR PET'S SAKE
by James R. Hill, D.V.M.

THE CONVALESCENT PET

Owning a pet is a serious responsibility. You must provide for most of your animal's needs and wants—food, shelter, exercise, love, and health. This last need requires particular care and sensitivity. Animals are by nature stoic and uncomplaining. A pet owner must be observant of the slightest signs of distress or abnormality—lethargy, poor appetite, restlessness, digestive disorders.

However, the pet owner's responsibility does not end when he or she discovers something wrong and delivers the animal to the veterinarian. Animal care is the full partnership of owner and veterinarian. Even the finest medical treatment can be rendered useless without the proper follow-up care of the animal.

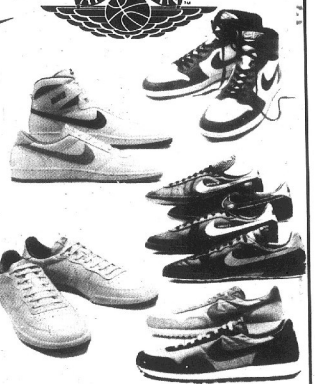

The owner must take care to resrict the amount of exercise of the convalescent pet according to the veterinarian's advice. The intake of food and water should also be monitored. Likewise, it is essential to remember your pet's medication and follow carefully the written instructions which the veterinarian has given you. Remember-your pet depends on you.

Helpful Hint: Spaying a female dog or cat at 5 or 6 months, before their first heat, seems to have the most long-range advantages. The notion that they need to have a litter or a previous heat results mostly in unwanted pregnancies.

Patrols checking state border

We don't know whether Illinois State Police plan massive "safety checks and roving patrols" here. But their officers were mighty busy Friday night, July 26, in the six counties adjacent to Wisconsin.

It is clear Superintendent Laimutis Nargelenas, who formerly commanded the troopers in the local district, is not overlooking our state's border areas.

The four-hour operation in Boone, Jo Davies, Lake, McHenry, Stephenson and Winnebago was conducted to "identify persons operating motor vehicles with defective equipment, without valid driver licenses or permits, or while driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs." There were 19 mobile patrols and six check sites at 25 state line locations.

Twenty-nine motorists were arrested for DUI (driving under the influence) and 119 citations were issued for such violations as open liquor or illegal possession by minors.

Another 53 tickets were written for equipment and license violations, and nine criminal charges were filed for possession of controlled substances. One driver was taken into custody on a Lake County traffic warrant and officers issued 300 warning citations asking drivers to correct minor infractions of the law.

Illinois Inspector General Jeremy Margolis, who was at one of the safety check sites, said, "The high number of alcohol-related charges is evidence of the state's determination to get drunk drivers off Illinois roads. Last year, State Police arrests for DUI increased by 18 percent over the 1983 arrests and by 120 percent over the DUI arrests made in 1981. Our success this year is only going to intensify our efforts to keep Illinois highways among the safest in the nation."

The appropriation last year allotted 25 more troopers to DUI patrol and replaced 53 intoxilyzers used to determine blood alcohol levels in suspected intoxicated motorists. The Illinois Department of Transportation also provided a grant to replace 21 intoxilyzer units.

The late-July safety checks and special patrols were made possible through a federal safety highway grant.

Nargelenas said, "Troopers have been and will continue to pay special attention to areas experiencing a high instance of alcohol-related activity. Illinois won't tolerate irresponsible motorists who drink and drive."

The "handwriting is on the wall." Motorists must stay sober, keep their driving skills up-to-date, and fix faulty taillights.

And the penalty facing them could be a lot worse than merely a traffic ticket. The lives they save could include their own.

Korean War memorial proposed

Thanks to recent action, the forgotten veterans of the 1960s-era Vietnam War are no longer forgotten. Now, attention is focusing on the Korean War, 1950-53.

Despite the huge popularity of the television show, MASH, which featured a military hospital near Korean front lines, the U.S. has yet to create a memorial to the service men and women who fought in Korea.

Unwilling to admit they were presiding over a war so soon after World War II, U.S. officials even failed to dignify the Korean fighting by calling it a war; it officially was a "police action" or "conflict." But 5.7 million Americans participated, and 54,000 Americans died there. It was not a minor engagement.

Cong. Stan Parris, R-Va., a Korean War veteran, has introduced a bill that would authorize not quite $5 million for construction of a national memorial in their honor.

It has just received a powerful endorsement at a legislative hearing from another Korean veteran, U.S. Senator John Glenn, a former Marine fighter pilot and the first American astronaut to orbit the earth.

Glenn emotionally told of seeing a serviceman who was shot through the neck while trying to direct air cover for our troops. Struggling to control his tears, the senator recalled how the wounded man continued trying to direct the planes until he died.

Such valor was commonplace during the Korean War as Americans fought Communist forces to a standstill. Congress can show the nation's appreciation for such faithful service by enacting Rep. Parris's bill.

Tax hikes focus on consumptions

By Jeff Brody

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois General Assembly has voted for permanent increases in four different taxes since 1983 began, and each could be considered a sales tax.

The movement to emphasize consumption taxes rather than income taxes is a major shift in state tax policy from what was established with imposition of the state income tax in 1970.

Since then, lawmakers have looked to income taxes only twice to solve state revenue problems, and once it was for a temporary increase only.

Corporate income tax rates were raised to replace the elimination of the corporate personal property tax in 1979. All income taxes were raised temporarily to help the state recover from recession in 1983.

But, contrary to the direction established in 1970 — and to the approach urged by several tax studies in intervening years — the state has not moved toward greater reliance on the income tax. And contrary to Thompson's own 1982 Tax Reform Commission recommendations, the state has raised the rate, but narrowed the base of the regular sales tax.

Before a permanent increase in the sales tax rate was approved in 1983, Illinois already depended on sales taxes more than most other states. Today, that dependence is even higher.

Of all of the state taxes, economists consider the income tax the fairest. It is broadly based, has few special interest exemptions, and has a low, flat rate that applies to nearly all taxpayers.

Because of the personal exemption, the tax falls less heavily on the poor, taking a smaller percentage of their income. The tax clearly is tied to the ability to pay — the more one earns, the more one pays.

The state sales tax, on the other hand, falls more heavily on those in lower income groups.

Many conservative economists support consumption taxes because they encourage people to earn and to save. But the Illinois move toward dependence on consumption taxes is not across the board. As a result, the tax encourages certain types of consumption but discourages other types.

The base of the tax is relatively narrow. Food and medicine are exempted. Manufacturing equipment or machinery used to maintain that equipment is not taxed. Neither is the sale of farm implements. Printing equipment is not taxed. Part of the cost of Gasohol is not taxed. And no services are taxed.

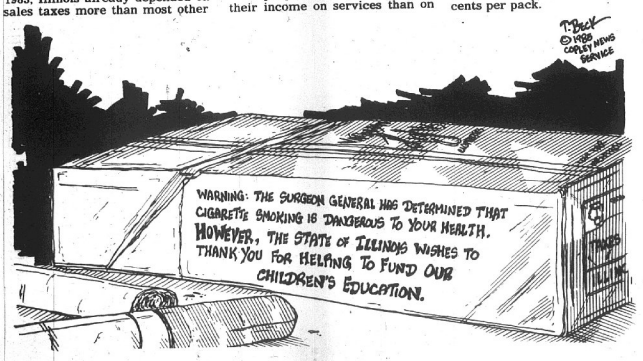

So people who spend more of their income on services than on tangible goods do not pay as much sales tax as their consumption would suggest.

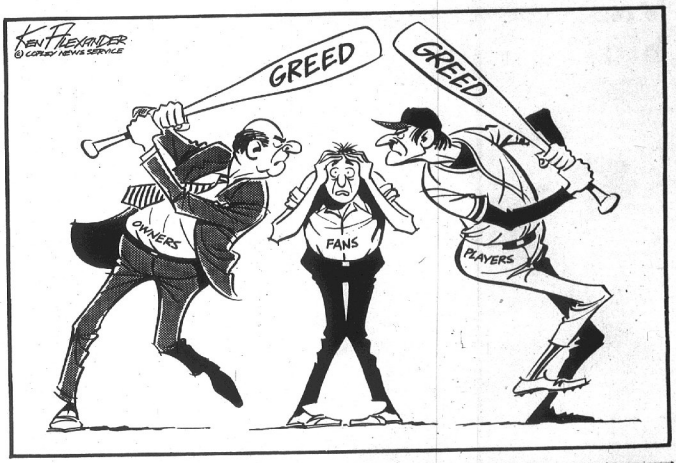

Here are some of the consumption tax changes made by the General Assembly in the past three sessions:

— Lawmakers in 1983 raised the state sales tax from 4 percent to 5 percent. That permanent increase accompanied a temporary increase in the state income tax. Public officials claimed credit for removing the temporary income tax increase in 1984, but few mentioned the continuing sales tax increase. (That boost was offset somewhat by the final removal of the sales tax on food and medicine, dropping the rate for those items from 2 percent to zero.)

— The Legislature in 1984 reimposed the 5 percent sales tax on soft drinks and other non-dairy beverages that contain a minimum of natural juices. That sales tax increase went to help fund the McCormick Place expansion, state tourism promotion, planning for the 1992 Chicago World's Fair and improvement of the state park system.

— Legislators in 1985 approved two consumption tax increases to help pay for education improvements. One imposed a new 5 percent message tax on interstate telephone calls; the second boosted the state cigarette tax by 8 cents per pack.

Deficit boosts interest rate, hurts farmers

To the Editor:

We're nearing the end of this year's squabble over how to cut the budget deficit.

The battle has been long — sometimes heated, sometimes just boring. Barring a political miracle, it seems that nothing important will have been accomplished.

In fact, the battle to cut the deficit will have to be fought again, because this year's effort will not solve the deficit dilemma.

In hindsight, it was probably a mistake to try to tackle tax reform this year. The tax reform issue simply diverted too much attention from the more important job of matching government income and expenses.

There simply wasn't enough time and energy both to overhaul the tax code and beat the deficit. In the end, the Reagan administration gave up on the idea of freezing major entitlement programs. As a result, the final compromise on budget cuts will hardly cut at all.

To make matters worse, it now appears certain that the U.S. economy is growing less rapidly than optimists expected. The result will be lower tax collections and large federal deficits as far as the eye can see.

Farmers continue to have a massive stake in the federal budget deficit because interest rates and the value of the dollar are related to deficit spending. Interest rates eased a bit when progress on cutting the deficit seemed more likely. And the U.S. dollar came down from record highs.

But failure to cut the deficit clouds the future of agriculture.

Interest rates are not likely to continue falling. In fact, the unsolved deficit problem lays the foundation for higher interest rates, weak foreign currencies, and continuing farm income problems. All as far as the eye can see.

Weekly Report To Illinois

SENATE PASSES AIR SECURITY BILL

Following the hijacking of TWA flight 847, Americans became acutely aware that our country is increasingly the target of terrorist acts.

It became very clear that we have to take decisive steps to stem the growing tide of attacks against Americans abroad, especially in the Midcast.

One of the best ways to counter the terrorist threat is to take the kind of actions that will prevent them from happening in the first place. Only by taking preventative steps can we discourage terrorists from victimizing Americans and American institutions.

President Reagan announced a series of steps to help achieve that goal; among them being the expansion of our armed sky marshal program. The Senate has now provided funding for that purpose.

I support this action and advocate the consideration of several other steps. Among these would be more extensive use of the Delta Force and the F.B.I. Hostage Rescue Team, suspension of $40-$50 million in aid to Lebanon which has not yet been obligated, and a priority emphasis on intelligence gathering in the area.

To specifically address the skyjacking threat, the Senate has just passed legislation, including provisions I sponsored.

The bill requires the Secretary of Transportation to conduct periodic assessments of the effectiveness of security measures at foreign airports.

If the Secretary finds an airport does not have security measures comparable to American airports, he or she is required to inform the appropriate foreign authorities to correct the problems.

If the foreign authorities fail to bring security levels up within 60 days, the Secretary is required to prominently display at major U.S. airports a list of foreign airports with security problems.

Most importantly, the Department of Transportation, with the approval of the Secretary of State, is given the authority to limit the operation of any U.S. or foreign air carrier flying to the U.S. from security deficient airports.

In addition, the bill contains a provision authored by my colleague, Senator Simon, which provides $10 million for the expanded development of equipment to detect plastic explosives. The production of this equipment would significantly enhance airport security.

This measure makes it clear to foreign governments that if they want to continue to enjoy travel business from American citizens, 100,000 of whom are overseas on any given day spending American currency, then they have to take the necessary precautions to protect our people.

The House of Representatives has just passed a similar bill and it will be reconciled with the Senate version in an upcoming conference committee.

We cannot wait for the next hijacking to show us where the airport and air carrier security problems are. We need a mechanism to assure that security problems are uncovered and corrected, and this bill is a good step toward that goal.

Vadalabene unhappy high-tech business incubator not funded

By DENNIS McMURRAY

Sen. Sam Vadalabene is upset that the final legislative package of "Build Illinois" projects for this fiscal year didn't include two he was pushing.

Sen. Sam, who boasted in legislative debate a few years ago that Madison County "had sunk a few feet" because of all the concrete in state projects brought to the district he had worked on over the years, doesn't think Madison County is getting enough from Build Illinois.

VADALABENE IS ALSO upset because he said he thought he had a commitment from legislative leaders who put together the final list of projects added to Build Illinois by the governor.

Specifically, he referred to Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlinville, Sen. Richard Luft, D-Pekin, and Rep. Jim Mcpike, D-Alton, the House majority leader.

The two projects Vadalabene wants were $4.5 million for the "South Bypass" connector highway between Rte. 157 and Rte. 159 south of Edwardsville and $1.5 million for putting in roads and utilities for a "University Park," a proposed high tech corporate headquarters and research facility center on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus.

Those projects were included in the first version of Build Illinois add-ons put together by legislative Democrats that was overwhelmingly rejected in the House (several House members said then Madison County was too greedy in that list).

THAT VERSION was much more generous to Madison County, containing $14 million in projects compared to $4.5 million in the final version.

McPike, Demuzio and Luft essentially did the final allocation of the projects for the final compromise over the weekend of July 6 and 7.

Vadalabene complained later he was not contacted by them over the weekend and did not learn until he returned to Springfield for the special session for Build Illinois on July 8 that the SIUE project had been eliminated and the South Bypass money cut to $1 million.

HE SAID HE particularly thought McPike should have made sure those projects were included. "I'm surprised McPike agreed to take those projects out," Vadalebene said.

Vadalabene was surprised the SIUE project was not included in the final package, because he said it was the kind of economic development project the governor said Build Illinois was intended to spur.

"This project should have a high priority.

"I DON'T THINK the area (Madison County) was treated fairly," Vadalabene said of the final Build Illinois first-year appropriation measure, based on what Madison County residents would pay in the new 5 percent tax on used car sales, which will primarily fund Build Illinois projects.

Vadalabene intends to talk to both Gov. James Thompson and Lt. Gov. George Ryan (who the governor named to a committee to review most of the legislative "add-on" projects) about the possibility of getting the projects funded through some unallocated lump sum appropriations in the governor's share of Build Illinois funding.

Vadalabene said he also will likely talk to Illinois department of Commerce and Community Affairs Director Mike Woelffer about the possibility of DCCA funding the SIUE project through its regular budget.

SIUE PRESIDENT Earl Lazerson would not criticize the General Assembly or individual legislators for not specifically including the University park project in the final Build Illinois project list and he credited Vadalabene, Rep. Sam Wolf and McPike with working on its behalf.

"They have to make a determination in the process and I respect it," he added.

Lazerson, however, said he will "vigorously pursue this" in the coming year and he regards it as a top priority for spurring both economic development in the region and as a

Crackdown on odometer rollbacks urged

How much mileage on that almost new auto?

Illinois Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan this week announced his office has completed a study revealing that about half of the one-time lease cars traced had their odometers rolled back.

The study traced odometer information on 5,000 randomly selected one-time lease cars. The study was commissioned by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, which said it recognized the expertise the Illinois attorney general's office has gained through years of active investigation and prosecution of odometer fraud cases.

HARTIGAN WILL introduce legislation this fall that calls for criminal penalties for those convicted of odometer fraud.

The legislation would make odometer tampering a Class 4 felony, subject to a penitentiary term of one to three years and a fine of $10,000.

"This is by far the most wide-ranging study of its kind ever completed," Hartigan said. "It shows that odometer tampering is a major problem, and it provides the federal government with accurate statistics not available before."

THE STUDY SHOWS that, of the 1,938 cars for which there was subsequent mileage data, 964 had odometers that had been rolled back — a percentage of 49.8 percent.

Of the 23 states surveyed, Kentucky had the highest number of odometer rollbacks, with 78.1 percent. New Hampshire had the smallest percentage of rollbacks — 6.3 percent. The rollback rate in Illinois was 18 percent.

"The study indicates that simply requiring the recording of mileage readings for each transaction does not necessarily deter odometer fraud. For instance, Indiana had subsequent mileage reports for a large number of vehicles, but the state still had relatively high numbers of altered odometers," Hartigan said.

"The state of Maine, which carefully reviews vehicle titles for inconsistencies and alterations, had substantially lower numbers of rollbacks.

"STRONGER EFFORTS must be directed toward actually inspecting lease car transactions and title documents.

"State agencies must be more aggressive in title and vehicle document inspection efforts."

The study recommended a central, computerized system which would be used for interstate investigations of odometer fraud.

According to NHTSA estimates, odometer tampering costs American consumers $2.8 billion a year. A car that has had its odometers rolled back can command an extra $1,000 or more in the sales price.

"THE COST to consumers may not be measured only in dollars," Hartigan said. "It could be that critical repairs to engine, brake and suspension assemblies are not performed simply because their need in not anticipated."

The attorney general announced results of the study at a joint press conference with Jeffrey R. Miller, deputy administrator and chief counsel of NHTSA.

The press conference was held in Chicago during the National Odometer Enforcement Association's fifth annual Odometer Tampering Conference, hosted by the Illinois attorney general's office.

The five-day conference will cover legislation, investigations and litigation designed to combat odometer fraud.

REPRESENTATIVES of 36 states, federal agencies and Canada are attending.

The attorney general noted his office recently took legal action against a used car dealership charged with rolling back odometers on 26 vehicles.

Hartigan's suit, filed in Federal District Court in Chicago, charges the owners of Best Used Cars, Blue Island, with rolling back the odometers an average of 30,000 miles. Charged in suit are Joseph Urbano, Blue Island, and Gerald Zimmerman, Markham.

Hartigan is seeking civil penalties of up to $50,000, at least $1,500 restitution for each affected consumer, and a permanent injunction prohibiting the defendants from purchasing or selling cars in the state.

GC to purchase phone system

GRANITE CITY — A new telephone system for City Hall and the purchase of the present phone system for other city offices were approved by aldermen Tuesday night.

City Comptroller Joe Miklovic told aldermen he investigated phone systems from AT&T and Illinois Bell Telephone.

He suggested the city consider the purchase of a Merlin phone system for City Hall offices and purchase of the other city phone systems "as is." The total purchase price is approximately $30,000.

The Merlin system features include speed dialing, call forwarding, hand-free dialing and automatic redial.

Miklovic said the city is currently paying a rental fee of $970 per month to rent the present phone system.

The Merlin system and purchase of other phones will cost the city $500 per month, under a five-year lease purchase agreement.

Miklovic said the lease-purchase agreement will not only represent immediate savings to the city, but after the five-year term the city will own the phones and no longer have to pay rent.

Miklovic said he only consulted with AT&T and Illinois Bell because the companies are reputable and he also believes they will have longevity in the telephone market.

Railways combine their trailer loading

Norfolk Southern Corp., Norfolk, Va., is consolidating the intermodel operations of its two railroad subsidiaries, which reported large increases in trailer loadings for the first half of 1985.

Southern Railway posted its best-ever second quarter, with 105,405 trailer loadings at its 28 intermodel terminals, and a record first half this year. The month of May set a record for trailer loadings on Southern, and March through June were among the top seven months ever.

Norfolk and Western Railway, meanwhile, reported a 24.2 percent increase in trailer loadings at its 16 intermodal terminals for the first six months.

Norfolk Southern's intermodal transportation services will be based at Atlanta and headed by R.A. Wharton, general manager. Wharton said unique chassis-stacking equipment now is in operation at Southern's Inman Yard, Atlanta, allowing 108 truck chassis to be stored vertically in an area the size of 12 trailer parking spaces. Southern is the only railroad in the U.S. that has this type of equipment.

Possible tragedy averted on bridge

A 32-year-old Missouri man was "talked down" from a precarious position on the McKinley Bridge in Venice when he appeared to be getting ready to jump at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 2.

Through the combined efforts of the Rev. Elzear Gehlen, pastor of St. Mark Catholic Church in Venice, and the man's brother, who was reached by police and came to the scene — plus prompt response by officers — the episode ended without tragedy.

A TOLL BOOTH operator first called Venice police and reported a man was preparing to jump from the middle of the bridge's superstructure.

When police arrived, a Pinkerton security guard already was trying to talk the man into climbing down.

The individual was threatening to jump and had been at a higher point in the superstructure before descending to about 30 feet above the bridge surface, an officer said.

The Florissant resident appeared confused and depressed, reports said.

WHILE POLICE Sgt. Birl Reed and Officer Algie Crawford III talked with the man, Officer Gary Wallace went to St. Mark Church and returned with Rev. Gehlen.

The priest talked to the man, who offered the telephone number of his brother. An ambulance was summoned, along with the relative. The priest continued his conversation with the man.

When the brother, a St. Louisan, arrived at 8:07 p.m., the police officers withdrew from the immediate area, leaving Rev. Gehlen and the brother to reason with the individual.

SHORTLY AFTERWARD, the man climbed down and was allowed to leave the area with his brother.

Officers theorized that had the man jumped, he would have landed on the bridge pavement, as the superstructure is located about nine feet inside the bridge railing.

Chouteau highway pension tax voted

By RACHEL NEWSOME

Chouteau residents can expect a 5 percent township tax hike next year. The increase was approved after a tax levy hearing Monday night.

For every $100 of assessed valuation, the tax rate will rise 4.6 cents, it was estimated. Funds from this rate will go to the highway department's Illinois Municipal Retirment Fund (IMRF).

SIX EMPLOYEES are covered by IMRF pension provisions. The state regulates the amount the town highway program must contribute each year.

Because of increases in IMRF and Social Security payments, Chouteau's funds have diminished and prior surpluses have been exhausted.

Attorney Jim Sinclair explained, "We would be in a deficit situation if we didn't (authorize the tax). Payment of this is a state law."

SUPERVISOR Morris Miles said, "This should have been raised back in 1983-84, maybe in 1982-83. Now it (the fund) has been eaten up.

"If it had been brought up a little each year, we wouldn't be in this position."

In the past year, IMRF payments have jumped from 6.36 percent to 7.75 percent while Social Security has risen 1.55 percent, Town Clerk Pat Polley said.

MILES SAID an ordinance on residential weed problems will be considered after the annual township meeting next spring.

In the meantime, a policy will be used to control weeds. It calls for a resident to send a notice of complaint, allowing adequate time to respond.

If a notice is ignored, the township can cut the weeds and bill the property owner. If unpaid, the bill can be taken to the Small Claims Court, with a lien then placed on the property. This will go into effect immediately.

A GRANT is to be received, it was disclosed at the regular town board meeting Monday.

Miles read notification that Madison County Community Development will provide $15,000 for rehabilitation of homes. The money will become available after environmental reviews have been completed by MCCD.

Chouteau next will meet at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 19.

"You've noticed I have missed a couple of meetings lately," he said. "I think it's time for me to step back a little. It isn't that the experience hasn't been interesting, because it certainly has."

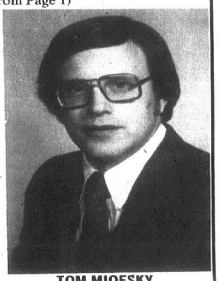

Miofsky served two terms as president of the board and three terms as secretary. He indicated he might be back.

"I THINK THERE IS a very good chance I will run again, maybe in five years or so," he said. "Right now I think my family is more important."

In addition to traveling on business trips, Miofsky said he had also done his share of traveling on board-related matters.

"And I have talked with parents and everybody over the years," he said. "I've always listened to them and talked with them. It's been enjoyable, and I will still be involved because my boys are coming up through the district."

IN ADDITION to Miofsky, three other board members have terms ending in November. Ruth Lahr, Alan Crider and Monroe Worthen.

Miofsky said he had not yet heard any other names mentioned as possible candidates. The first day for filing petitions at school board offices is Aug. 19

GC awards contract to remove school asbestos

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Asbestos removal will be done in the Granite City schools no earlier than next June.

The school board awarded a bid Tuesday to Von Arx Construction Co. of St. Louis for removal of asbestos in three buildings for $29,800, but the award was conditional on Von Arx waiting until next summer after school is out.

"I HAD WONDERED about the timing of this," said board member Dewey Melton. "But the fact that this is the second time the bids have gone out answered my question. Let's award it to them and see what they say."

The district got no responses when the job was put out for bids the first time.

Henry Gabriel, a local architect, said the job would probably take about 20 working days to complete and would likely require the closing of the high school gymnasium for about 10 days, as well as the closing of affected areas at Coolidge Junior High School and Prather School for five days each.

"I HAVE TALKED with the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) and they said they would not like to have any students around while the work was being done," Gabriel said. "I would recommend holding off on the job until June."

The board authorized Gabriel to go back to Von Arx, tell the company the board accepted its bid, and ask if it could wait until the 1985-86 school year is over in June.

"I'm sure the price will go up a little bit if we wait a year," said Ron Landman, director of buildings and grounds for the district. "But we've waited this long. I can't see another eight or nine months hurting things too much."

GABRIEL SAID he thinks Von Arx works out of St. Louis, so he didn't know if any local people would be called in to do the job.

"I think we could award this bid tonight," said board president Kelly Hogan. "But we have to include that stipulation about not doing it until the summer. He could come in Sept. 1 and be ready to go, otherwise."

Asbestos once was commonly used in construction, but in recent years it has been found to be a health hazard.

Venice gets $25,000 to rehabilitate homes

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

A $25,000 grant to rehabilitate homes has been awarded to Venice by the Madison County Community Development Agency, Mayor Tyrone Echols reported at Tuesday night's meeting of the Venice City Council.

Joseph D. Parente, Community Development coordinator for the county, said the grant was allocated from the countywide Housing Rehabilitation Pool upon approval by the County Community Development Advisory Committee.

ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS and public participation procedures are required prior to the overall county application being submitted to the U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department for approval, Parente said.

Release of the funds is expected in October.

After a June 25 public hearing, the City of Venice submitted a request for $60,000 in housing rehabilitation funds, meeting a June 27 application deadline.

ECHOLS SPECULATED at the hearing the city might qualify for a grant between $30,000 and $40,000. Council members voted to seek $60,000, however.

A total of $225,000 is expected to be made available to Madison County communities through HUD's housing renovation program.

Previously, allocations permitted a maximum of $7,500 for each dwelling to be repaired and renovated.

IF NECESSARY WORK to bring a home up to standard costs $10,000 the homeowner is required to provide the additional funds to complete the job.

Grants are based on the needs of a community, plus residents' income levels and the city's unemployment figures, Echols said.

Aldermen were optimistic at the public hearing, hoping at least seven homes could be renovated through the program in the next fiscal year.

RESTRICTIONS are tied to use of the housing pool money.

Demolition work on derelict property is not permitted, Echols said, citing one example.

In another matter, the first franchise fee payment of $2,474 has been received by the city from South-Western Cable TV Ltd., the mayor reported.

THE AMOUNT represents 3 percent of the $82,472 in revenue the cable television firm received from Venice subscribers druing its first six-month period, ending June 30.

William W. Rouggly, South-Western general manager, said Venice subscribers totaled 620 at the beginning of June.

Installation of cable TV lines was continuing in some areas of the city in late May.

BURGLAR TAKES JEWELRY

Judy Epps of 1 Reta Court reported to Madison County authorities that a burglar took $200 worth of jewelry and $200 cash from her home Aug. 5. The jewelry included a gold watch.

Assessment deal

"I just feel if we pay $225,000 for an appraisal, we should try to come a little closer to the figures he comes up with."

Hogan said he feared the possibility of other companies in the area protesting their taxes.

"THEY COULD HAVE followed suit and they still may," he said. "I just wanted a fair appraisal done."

Hogan said some concern was expressed that if the case had gone to court, the taxing bodies could lose. That, he felt, was the main reason other board members voted for the settlement.

"But I think we went about it in a realistic and fair way, and when you have one of the most renowned appraisal men in the business supplying your figures, you should have a pretty good chance," Hogan said.

HOGAN WOULD HAVE preferred the case had at least gone to the Board of Review.

Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse, formerly assessor of Granite City Township, last week expressed satisfaction with the agreement.

"I think we got a fair share," Cruse said. "We weren't a big winner in the settlement and Granite City Steel wasn't a big loser."

THE DISAGREEMENT between governmental agencies and their largest taxpayer began when the steel mill sought to have about four-fifths of its valuation eliminated.

Taxing bodies in Granite City and Nameoki townships fought this move by obtaining an independent appraisal of the plant's value, and the compromise settlement followed. They said such a big reduction in their tax base would have jeopardized their services to the public.

The William Scholley law firm represented the governmental bodies.

State fair has international flavor

By DENNIS McMURRAY

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois State Fair opening today will offer an expanded international flavor, with a returning exhibit from China joined by new exhibits from Japan and Australia.

A delegation from Liaoning Province in China, which has developed a "sister state" relationship with Illinois, will be back with a large exhibit for the second year, emphasizing arts and crafts this year rather than industrial products.

ITEMS TO BE SOLD at the exhibit will include sea shell carvings, silk banners, traditional Chinese art work, tapestries, cotton shoes, chopsticks, tea sets and a variety of other items.

A Japanese government trade organization will also put on a large display this year. It will feature full-size models of two rooms of a Japanese home featuring American products sold in Japan and regularly used by Japanese families. (An official of the organization conceded in a pre-fair press conference this week it had been difficult to locate such items.)

One of the more unusual parts of the Japanese exhibit will be a robot string and wind ensemble, with each instrument played by a robot. The robots will perform classical and popular musical selections.

A TRADITIONAL Taiko drummer — a human, not a robot — will also perform at the exhibition. And two Japanese films, a romantic drama and a travel film, will be shown in the theater of the Illinois Building each day during the fair.

Also this year there will be an exhibit from Australia, featuring more than 200 specialty products made in the land Down Under. Most of them will be for sale at the fair, including such items as boomerangs, stuffed koala bears, kangaroo leather items and seashells from the Great Barrier Reef.

All three of the international exhibits will be housed in the Illinois Building just inside the Main Gate.

ALTHOUGH MOST of the other features will be familiar to recent fairgoers, other new events include a nightly "Twilight Ballroom" with free dancing in an outdoor pavillion to the sound of live groups including big band, orchestra, polka, jazz, and square dance music.

Twilight Ballroom is located at the southeast corner of the fairgrounds.

Also new this year is a "Partners in Productivity" exhibit put on by the United Auto Workers Union in cooperation with Illinois companies employing UAW members. A wide variety of products manufactured by the firms, as well as Ford Motor Company's new J-Car and the Chrysler Liberty series, will be on display.

ALONG WITH traditional competitions like the rooster-crowing event and the husband-calling contest, a mud volleyball tournament has been added for Sunday, Aug. 11.

There will be an organ playing contest Aug. 9-11 and an old-time piano playing contest Monday, Aug. 12.

One of the most popular features of recent state fairs, the Heinold Racing Pig Team, will also be back this year. Fairgoers again can "wager" (for free) on the fleetfooted pigs, some of which also jump hurdles on their special track.

MORE FREE entertainment and specialty food booths will be offered in the Ethnic Village section of the fair, with dozens of folk dance and music groups around the state slated to make appearances throughout the fair.

State Fair officials hope this is the year attendance will top the million mark for the first time. Fair attendance last year was 941,908 and has been steadily increasing each year after attendance slumped to 605,000 in 1980.

Many visitors will pass through the 75-year-old Main Gate, which after $300,000 and more than a year's work has been restored to its original 1910 neoclassic splendor.

General admission to the fair this year is $2 for adults from age 17 to 60. Younger and older fairgoers get in free, and veterans with proper identification will be admitted free on Sunday, Aug. 11.

HERE IS a schedule of "special days" at the fair:

Today, Aug. 8 — Pride of Illinois Day. Events include the Society Horse Show and tractor pull. The rock group Survivor, featuring Mitch Ryder, will perform the evening show in the grandstand.

Friday, Aug. 9 — County Fair Day. Events include Celebrity Donkey Races. The grandstand star is Willie Nelson, who is also something of a state fair institution after several years of consecutive appearances.

Saturday, Aug. 10 — Local Officials Day. Events include a free circus at 3 p.m. and a speed-casting tournament. Grandstand entertainment is George Thorogood and the Destroyers along with Johnny Winter.

SUNDAY, AUG. 11 — Veterans Day. Events will include drum and bugle corps competition, a baton twirling contest, mud volleyball, a hog calling contest, husband calling and an organ contest.

Monday, Aug. 12 — Horse Racing Day. The first of five days of harness racing on the "fastest one-mile track in the world" commences at 11 a.m. Old-time piano playing and barnyard relays are among other events. Grandstand stars at night are Waylon Jennings, Jessie Colter and Neil Young.

Tuesday, Aug. 13 — Agriculture Day. Events include a goat milking derby, school band contest, and finals of the rooster crowing competition. More harness racing. Grandstand show: comedians Gallagher and Sawyer Brown.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 14 — Governor's Day. Events include the Sale of Champions (top prize-winning livestock), Society Horse Show and finals of goat milking competition. The evening grandstand show is The Beach Boys.

Thursday, Aug. 15 — Democrat Day. Events include the Moo Moo Classic Celebrity Milking Contest. Grandstand show: John Waite and Meat Loaf.

Friday, Aug. 16 — Youth Day. Events include break dance competiton, diaper derby, square dance festival and a free circus. Final day of harness racing. Free evening grandstand performance by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

SATURDAY, AUG. 17 — Race Day. Events include U.S. Auto Club Dirt Champion (auto racing) time trials and racing in the grandstand, and other competitions on the fairgrounds include cheerleading, weightlifting and the Dumb Dog Trick Contest. Evening grandstand show is Alabama.

Sunday, Aug. 18 — Family Day. Events include Coors/ARCA Stock Car time trials and race and a USAC midget car race. Unlimited full day of rides in Happy Hollow will be available for $5 this day only. Alabama will again perform in the evening grandstand show, followed by a closing massive fireworks display.

Electric rates to rise in '86

By BILL WINTER
Staff writer

Electric bills will rise 11 percent when the Clinton power plant is loaded with fuel, possibly next January.

Another 11 percent rate increase will go into effect when the plant goes into full operation, currently set for July 1986.

When completely in effect, the increase in a typical family's electric bill is estimated at $123 a year.

THE DECISIONS affecting Illinois Power Co. and its 530,000 customers were made Wednesday in unanimous voting by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

In approving a $139 million rate hike, the ICC set a maximum of $2.7 billion which IPC can pass along to consumers for Clinton construction costs. Total cost of the nuclear-power generating plant will exceed $3 billion.

The utility said it will probably oppose the limit as illegal.

THE ICC allowed an additional $914 million in construction costs into the IPC rate base, including $179 million now; no rate change will occur now because the ICC has changed the way of tallying the utility's rate of return on investment.

Another $352 million will go into the rate base next winter and a final $383 million when the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission certifies that full power has been achieved.

The ICC previously allowed $625 million for Clinton to be placed in the rate base. With the $914 million, this total will rise to $1,539,000,000.

Mark 10:27 . . . "With God all things are possible."

We surely have no double about the ability of Almighty God. The Bible is crammed from cover to cover with outstanding miracles made possible by Him. We also know that He is the same yesterday, today, and forever.

We must take the limits off of God. Now is the time to have faith in Him. He is Saviour, Healer, and Baptizer. He is everything we need.

Please notice the Scripture states: With God. This signifies our unity with Him. We must tell the good news. We must pray for the sick. We must cast our devils. We must speak with new tongues. And He will confirm the Word with signs following!

Without Him we are nothing. But we can do all things through Him.

The miracle working God wants to begin with you.

Builders to bargain alone, not as group

No longer will the Southern Illinois Builders Association bargain collectively as an association.

SIBA Executive Director Leonard Boyer said contractors will be dealing directly with construction unions, adding:

"This decision does not equate to abandonment by the association of its members and their labor interests. In fact, this move should strengthen the bargaining posture of contractors and allow them to address, with their counterparts in labor, the specific issues that affect their particular operations."

PRODUCTIVITY gains were cited as a major goal.

SIBA, a chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America, serves nearly 800 construction and related firms in 39 counties of Southern Illinois.

It will continue to "coordinate bargaining, offer assistance and provide model contracts as part of labor relations efforts on behalf of the members, virtually as it has since 1946. The association's role will continue to be just as important as it has been in the areas of jurisdiction, wage rate information and contract interpretation," Boyer said.

"It is the board's conviction that it is impossible, under the traditional method of negotiating multi-employer contracts, to satisfy the many and diverse needs of SIBA members. The board believes other alternatives may lend themselves to satisfying the needs unique to each individual contractor."

SIBA HAS negotiated construction labor agreements, on behalf of large groups of its members, with basic trades — carpenters, operating engineers, ironworkers, cement masons, laborers and teamsters — since its inception. This will no longer occur.

Boyer said, "There are a number of reasons for the change. Some unions have turned a deaf ear to pleas to help answer the particular needs of various segments of the industry.

"At the same time, a particularly distressing practice has been the denial of concessions to those in the bargaining unit — concessions that are routinely granted to 'visiting' contractors who are not SIBA members, and to selected owners and developers who ask for contract changes that favor their individual projects and situations.

"It has become apparent the only way — to ensure that individual issues important to each contractor or type of operaton are addressed — is for employers of like characteristics to gravitate to each other and negotiate from their point of view.

"IT IS OUR HOPE this new approach will mean negotiations will again begin to recognize the selective individual needs of diverse groups of contractors."

Boyer noted the entry within the last two to three years into the Scott Air Force Base construction market of "open-shop firms, the recent arrival for the first time of non-union contractors in highway construction in this region, the nearly-complete loss of residential and light commercial construction for unions in the Madison County area, and the rapid deterioration of public and private construction markets for union contractors in other segments of Southern Illinois."

He stressed, "Steps must be taken to allow contractor-members to compete.

"VARIOUS CITIES, counties and government agencies have contracts with building trades unions to perform day labor (in-house) construction work, instead of contracting such work out to the private sector.

"Union members are putting their (union) cards in their shoes, at least on a temporary basis, and are performing work at night or on weekends that was formerly performed under contract utilizing union labor in the more traditional sense.

"If all entities are looking out for their own self-interests, it is time that contractors do likewise.

"Contrary to what some may believe, the decision by the SIBA board does not represent the intention to move to open shop. SIBA is a contractors' association for members regardless of size, type of work, or status of relationship with unions.

"WE ARE NOT the first to forsake traditional multi-employer bargaining. AGC chapters all over the country have made similar moves in the past several years, all due to lack of response for meaningful change and due to marketplace realities.

"Construction owners' demands for a less expensive, more cost-efficient product will only grow louder in the days ahead, unless the open-shop movement proceeds to satisfy those demands before the unionized contruction sector does.

"The challenge for the 1980s and '90s," Boyer added, "will be to reverse the present situation in which essential replacement of segments of the public works system has been deferred because of economic considerations.

"If the union segment of the construction industry is to take an active part in rebuilding the infrastructure, it will have to make its participants more competitive by achieving significant improvements in contract working conditions that will result in increased productivity.

"FINALLY, THEY MUST understand that their future within the industry will have to depend on contract improvements granted to contractors that hire their rank-and-file members on a day-in, day-out basis, not only for those contractors that they know can bring in their own open-shop workforce, and not only on projects that are so large there is inherently a fear within the building trades of losing the work to a non-union firm.

"In short, construction firms in this region can no longer afford to offer their products and services at costs higher than the marketplace will bear. They must bargain hard for the changes they feel they personally need.

"The SIBA board believes this revision of its labor relations policy will be a positive step toward that end."

Committee's objective is city clean-up

GRANITE CITY — The formation of a committee to spark new interest in the community's appearance was announced by Mayor Von Dee Cruse Tuesday night.

Cruse said the long-range objective of the committee, called Project City Pride, is to reverse an image of Granite City from "a dirty, rundown steel town across the river from St. Louis" to the "cleanest, neatest and most attractive industrial community in Illinois."

GRANITE CITY STEEL has shown the way with an "outstanding" program of landscaping its parking lots and industrial buildings with trees and shrubs, he said.

Cruse added that A.O. Smith Corp., Illinois Power Co. and other businesses have also adopted projects to make their facilities more attractive.

"It is a challenge to the rest of the community to match the efforts of our leading industries," he said. "We need to make our community as appealing as possible in the competition to attract new companies and businesses to develop more jobs.

"Although we have an excellent industrial location, there is much that can be done to improve the attractiveness of our city. Every business and every homeowner can and should do his part in putting our best foot forward in the competition to attract new jobs.

"SHOWING PRIDE in ourselves by keeping our properties repaired and painted, and adding a few trees and shrubs can make a world of difference to our town. It is an important step to help it turn around."

The chairman of the new committee is Marilyn McKechan. She said the group has already held its first meeting and ideas and projects are being discussed with Cruse.

Other citizens on the committee are Sharon Engelke, Karen Melton, Barbara Monroe, Bev Golden, 6th Ward Alderwoman Judy Whitaker, Marie Robertson, Becky Lewis, 5th Ward Alderman Jake Varadian, Jo Meyer, Nancy Halvachs and Kent Holsinger.

THE COMMITTEE is open to other members of the public who are interested in improving the appearance of the city, Varadian said.

The group has already participated in a tree-trimming and weeding project on the St. Clair Avenue parkway.

Those interested in joining Project City Pride may call Cruse's office at 452-6214.

State returns $1.6 million, has another $115 million

The state took in $16 million in unclaimed property and returned more than $1.6 million to Illinois citizens during the past fiscal year, breaking all previous records for receipt and disbursement of unclaimed assets.

Not only did the Unclaimed Property Division of the Department of Financial Institutions (DFI) collect over $16 million in unclaimed financial assets, but it returned a tenth of that amount to 2,493 who had forgotten about money that was rightfully theirs.

DFI published the names of 21,476 individuals who are entitled to reclaim property, the most comprehensive list ever published of names submitted for the first time.

Since 1977, the state has increased efforts to enforce the Uniform Disposition of Unclaimed Property Act — one of Illinois' original consumer protection laws — and to return as much money as possible to the owners or their heirs.

Between 1962 (when the Act took effect) and 1976, the department collected $22,531,175 and returned $1,668,797. Through June 30, 1985, its has collected $104,896,073 and returned $9,951,299 to the public.

DFI Director Michael E. Frysze said, "This was a good year but we are not satisfied because we have more than $115,000,000 to return."

The law requires all entities — public, private and government — to remit all financial assets to the state if unclaimed for seven years or more. Unclaimed assets include abandoned savings and checking accounts, uncashed paychecks, uncashed dividends, money orders and gift certificates.

Earlier this year, the department took possession of the contents of almost 5,000 safe deposit boxes. The contents were released to Illinois' custody by the U.S. comptroller of the currency after being stored in Washington, D.C., since the 1930s depression.

"As banks failed and people did not come forward to claim their contents, the remainder was sent to Washington," said Fryzel.

"We are taking an inventory of the contents and will attempt to match up the property with owners or heirs.

"In addition, because of the significance the contents may have for Illinois history, we have sponsored legislation to allow us to loan the unclaimed contents to museums and universities around the state."

Anyone who feels he or she may have unclaimed assets may write to the Department of Financial Institutions, Unclaimed Property Division, 421 E. Capitol, Springfield 62706.

JOUR DE FETE, Ste. Genevieve's celebration of its French heritage will be Aug. 10 and 11.

'Jour de Fete' observes Ste. Genevieve's heritage

For 20 years, Ste. Genevieve, Mo., has shared its historical heritage at "Jour de Fete," French for the day of celebration.

This year's celebration, set this weekend, Aug. 10-11, is expected to be the biggest and the best. Ste. Genevieve's 250th anniversary of its founding by French pioneers will be the focal point of this outdoor festival.

The opening ceremony, with French marines and French singers and dancers, will be held on the town's square at 10 a.m. A colonial costume contest will follow.

Ste. Genevieve's historic Main Street will become the "Esplande des Arts," a linear exhibition of the Midwest's finest artists and craftsmen.

Display booths will line both sides of Main Street, stretching for more than a mile. The arts and crafts will complement antique shops and Creole homes, built two centuries ago.

"Jour de Fete" offers tours of restored French homes, cuisine, quilts and crafts, French colonial demonstrations, entertainers, a rendezvous, street puppeteers and singers, and a melodrama.

"Jour de Fete" programs and other free information are available at the Tourist Information Center on the town's square.

For further information, interested persons may call 1-314-883-5750.

Anniversary of Climatron to be observed in October

The Climatron, perhaps the most visible symbol the Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden has, will celebrate its 25th anniversary on Sunday, Oct. 13, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Since the Climatron is such a strong symbol of Shaw's Garden and St. Louis, numerous special attractions are planned that day. Some of the attractions are:

— A giant birthday cake to feed 2,500 guests (donated by McArthur Party Cake Bakery and the Master Retail Bakers Association of Greater St. Louis).

— Live exhibit of snakes of the tropics.

— Free plants to children.

— Slideshows, lectures, exhibits and archival displays, plus a contest to guess the number of Plexiglas panes in the Climatron's ceiling.

The Climatron, completed in 1960 at a cost of $700,000, has drawn over six million visitors in its 25 years.

In addition to attracting visitors with its massive display of tropical plants (over 1,700 species), the Climatron is also called an architectural wonder.

Designed by R. Buckminster Fuller, the Climatron was the world's first geodesic dome greenhouse and is still the country's largest dome-designed conservatory to house tropical plants in a naturalistic setting. The Climatron was rated in 1976 by the American Institute of Architects as one of the 100 most notable American buildings of the 20th Century.

A 1965 Ford auto owned by Vonda Barton of 1632 State St. was stolen Aug. 3 when the auto was left overnight in a parking lot at 18th and State streets. It was discovered the next day in the 1700 block of Cleveland Blvd. The ignition had been punched, enabling it to be driven without a key.

Cultural development part of Build Illinois

The $380 million Build Illinois program contains, in addition to more traditional infrastructure projects, a $1 million appropriation for the Illinois Arts Council to help local govenments, school districts and community not-for-profit organizations in the planning, design and implementation of cultural facilities in Illinois.

Illinois Arts Council Executive Director Adrienne N. Hirsch discussed this cultural facility development program last year at the Design Arts Office of the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington, D.C. Encouraged by the Endowment to proceed with attempts to gain governmental support for the proposal, the council presented the Illinois General Assembly with an amendment to Build Illinois.

This amendment, known as the Cultural Facilites Act, charged the Arts Council with the responsibility to create both a grants program and a design arts advisory panel.

The council is a state agency that provides grants and technical assistance to individual artists, community arts agencies and non-profit organizations presenting arts programming. It is dedicated to "supporting the arts of the state in all their diversity."

STRONGARM ROBBERY NEAR LIQUOR STORE NETS $200

Richard Thomas of the 1100 block of Douglas Street, Venice, said two men came into Garrett's Cut Rate Liquor Store, 337 Weaver St., Granite City, about 10:35 p.m. Aug. 3 and asked him to step outside. When he complied, they pushed him to the ground, ripped his pants pocket and stole two envelopes containing $200.

Thomas called for help, but no one came to aid him and the men ran from the scene. He also was struck in the chest, the victim told police.

A suspect was questioned about the incident, but he denied the allegation. The investigation is continuing.

MESD to help with well

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A plan to reduce the underground water level in Dobrey Slough is moving closer to reality.

Shang Greathouse, Metro-East Sanitary District executive director, said the district will probably help install and operate a well in the slough.

ALTHOUGH NO formal action has been taken by the MESD board, Greathouse expects formal board action on the proposal in the near future.

Meanwhile, the Nameoki Town Board of Trustees has approved the plan, while the Granite City Council has taken no action. The plan calls for participation by all three of the taxing entities.

Greathouse said he agrees with the plan because it limits the amount of money and time that will be devoted to operating the well.

"FOR $4,000, I'm not going to quarrel about it," he said. "My main concern is not getting too involved in things like that. We got this district out of debt by staying away from things like that. We don't want to get hoodwinked out of $4,000, then $6,000."

Nameoki Trustee Norm Hall said Greathouse told him MESD's share of the project, $3,410, would come from the district's general fund.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse could not be reached for comment on Granite City's possible participation, but several city officials said no council action has been taken on the plan.

"TO ME, IT IS an academic exercise," said Henry Bieniecki, assistant to the mayor. "It's easy to predict the general effect in a year."

The effect of a well on the underground water level is based on what Bieniecki called a logarithmic scale. Such a scale shows that although the water level might reduce drastically during the first day of the well's operation, the effects would decrease so that by the end of a year, there would be very little effect on the water table.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers predicted the same thing when it tested the well last January.

ACCORDING TO the plan, the well's installation cost would be shared on an equal basis by Nameoki Township, MESD and Granite City, with each participant's share not to exceed $3,410.

The plan stipulates that the well be operated for only one year to determine whether the well is effective in lowering the water table.

Namcoki Township will use health funds to pay for its share of operating and maintaining the well because of the health dangers of water standing in basements of homes in the area.

THE CORPS of Engineers estimated the well could have some effect on 500 to 600 homes within a 10-block radius of the well.

Installation and equipment of the well are estimated to cost $6,677, with the three taxing bodies to pay $2,226 each.

Hall said a verbal agreement has been reached with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cooper, property owners at Pine and Hemlock streets, where the well would be installed.

THEY HAVE agreed to let the taxing bodies use their land for one year, with the stipulation that the Coopers would be released of any liabilities and that the land would be purchased by permanent users or a taxing district for a reasonable fee at the end of the year.

The well casing, installed by the Corps during testing, would be donated to the taxing bodies.

Operational costs are estimated at $4,878 for 11 months, with each taxing body to pay $148 per month.

RESIDENTS OF the slough area have approached the MESD board and the Granite City council with petitions asking that the well be maintained.

The petitions contain 456 signatures.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED

If a person is contemplating a purchase of real estate in today's market, whether it be residential or commercial, it is important to "buy the property right." What this term means is that the buyer buys the property at less than market value with terms of financing which are in his best interest. When one considers that at today's interest rates a buyer under a 30 year mortgage will pay for his property at least three times over, it becomes apparent that purchasing wisely is of paramount importance.

The first thing the buyer of real estate can do is have the property appraised to see what the fair market value is. Most sellers have an inflated opinion regarding what their property is worth. A buyer who has an appraisal in hand is in a better position to purchase the property wisely.

A prospective purchaser should never be afraid to offer less than the asking price. It has always been a source of amazement to this writer how many buyers will offer exactly what the seller is asking for the property. A seller who is in difficult financial straits or who needs to sell immediately for other reasons may be receptive to a low offer.

The second aspect to "buying the property right" it to obain good financing terms. Banks today often try to convince a buyer to purchase real estate under an adjustable mortgage loan (AML). What this means is that the interest rate will be adjusted periodically, usually annually, based on a variety of financial considerations. Buying property without a fixed interest rate is very risky in that a buyer's monthly payment could increase substantially if the rate jumped dramatically.

If the bank will not provide a fixed rate loan at a reasonable level of interest, one should consider asking the seller to sell on a contract for deed, also known as a bond for deed. In this way, the buyer bypasses the lending institution and pays interest to the seller based on a mutually agreeable rate. If a buyer is to purchase real estate wisely, he needs to put as little money down as possible and get a good rate of interest for a substantial period of time. In many cases, a buyer has a better chance of accomplishing this by dealing directly with the seller under a bond for deed.

Boat racing may be in her blood, but not in her future

By JOE THOMPSON
Staff writer

There was a time when 24-year-old Kim Seebold-Bernaix wanted to do what her father and brother do as well as anybody in the world.

Kim, who recently moved from Granite City to O'Fallon, is the only daughter of famous powerboat racer Bill Seebold, tabbed as the "winningest driver in the history of the sport."

She is a step sister to Mike Seebold, who has carved a respectable niche of his own in the powerboat racing business.

The Busch World Championship Grand Prix Powerboat Race will be run in Fenton, Mo. Saturday and Sunday, and the major question trumpeted in racing circles is: "Will Bill and Mike Seebold again finish one-two?"

Except for the fact she was born female, the question might have been, "Will the Seebolds again finish one-two-three?"

The third Seebold finisher being Kim. Such is the rugged and dangerous world of speed boat racing, which has recognized only a few women.

"I would've liked to (race boats), but I don't know," says Kim, a hair stylist at J. Scott's Beauty Salon in Granite City. "The more I think about it, seeing them going that fast. I don't know if I would have liked that or not."

There was a time when Kim, a 1979 graduate of Granite City High North, wanted to at least try. But her father put his foot down — about as hard as he has during his racing career which began at age 11 under the guidance of his father, Bill, who also raced powerboats.

"He told me 'no,' " said Kim, who was "19 or 20" at the time she sought her father's council. "I really wanted to try it. He said it was too dangerous a sport."

As a family, the Seebolds have few if any peers in the world of powerboat racing. Their roots originated in Granite City.

Kim's father, who is in his mid-40's, was born and reared here. He now lives in St. Louis where, besides tending to powerboat racing, he has constructed a thriving race and pleasure boat building business.

Bill's father, whose name is also Bill, owned a boat and motor business in Granite City. He left the city about five years ago. He now makes his home in Imperial, Mo.

Mike, 26, has survived two serious accidents to race — and race well. In 1982, he won the National Powerboat Association Point Series. He began the 1985 season roaring in under the checkered flag at the Bahama Grand Prix at Nassau.

He was adopted by Bill, who had married Mike's mother. There are two other Seebolds who may give opposing racing teams a run for the flag in the future: Bill's sons, Tim, 21, and Billy, 14.

"It's a racing family," says Kim, one of the few Seebolds remaining who has direct ties to Granite City.

Kim has been around boat racing nearly her entire life. In fact, she made her first appearance at a power boat race at the age of one week.

"I don't know (what race) it was. I don't remember if my father won or not," she says with a smile.

If her father had swept to one of his many victories that night, little doubt he pitched a toast to his only daughter. Not racing herself and having no desire to "go fast," Kim does what other Seebold females, including grandmother Pauline, do on race days.

"I like to be out there to watch them," says Kim. "To cheer them on. Just to give them moral support."

Her moral support always includes a prayer.

It was in 1982 in a race in Ohio when Mike was seriously injured.

"He almost lost a leg," says Kim. "He was in the hospital for a long time. There was a hole the size of a grapefruit on one side of his leg. It was very serious."

Kim's father, while believing speed boat racing is no business for a lady, did not ask his injured son to give up the sport.

"No. That was entirely up to Mike," says Kim. "I think after he had that bad accident my father wanted him to think real hard about whether he wanted to do it again. But a year later he raced in a race in St. Louis.

"Everyone was very, very, very nervous," Kim says. "But he had good luck. He kept up racing."

That's what Kim's prayers are for: the good luck to continue. Her father has never been seriously injured in an accident.

"I'm not extremely religious," says Kim. "But I do say my prayers when they're out there."

As favorites in this weekend's Grand Prix, which will be held in George Winter Park's Lake in suburban Fenton, there will be other prayers offered: from remaining competitors.

The Seebolds, members of the Bud Light Racing Team, will be hard to catch.

Like his son, Bill has already notched a victory this year. That came at the Miami International Grand Prix. Mike finished second in the event.

Bill was the 1982 World Formula 1 Champion. He has captured the checkered flag of the prestigious Duke of York race at Bristol, England, an unprecedented six times.

He has won 51 national and world championships.

Mike stepped into the hometown limelight in 1982 in a race in St. Louis. His father was forced from the contest in the 35th lap when the engine of his car blew up. Mike zipped into the lead of the 100 lap event to win, an achievement that prompted the following headline in a local newspaper: "Mike Seebold Steps Out Of Father's Shadow With Win."

In winning the Grand Prix at Nassau earlier this year, Mike finished ahead of 30 other drivers.

Kim says there is no rivalry between father and son. She says they share a common love.

"They like the feel of going fast and the power of the boat," she says.

Drown the danger. "Yeah, it's dangerous," says Kim. "But that's the chance you have to take. If you get in the car and drive to the store, it's a chance you have to take.

"I don't think they really think about how dangerous it is. I think, they think about going out there and winning. Keeping control of the boat and doing a good job."

Kim says she cannot picture her father not involved in boat racing. "I think someday he would like to retire from it, not be actually racing, but still be involved in the boating end of it. I don't think he'll ever be a spectator.

"He just loves racing," Kim says. "His whole work, life is boat racing. I don't think he would ever not be involved."

As for Kim, how does a female Seebold gratify an inbredded zest for power boat racing?

Kim may not race boats, but she does ride motorcycles (on land and water), skiis on water and snow, and rides dirt bikes.

There's also her profession. Cutting hair at J. Scott's, Kim says with a laugh, "is not boring at all.

"I get to meet different people each day."

Not always an average customer, either, says Kim, still smiling. "We get some wild people in here."

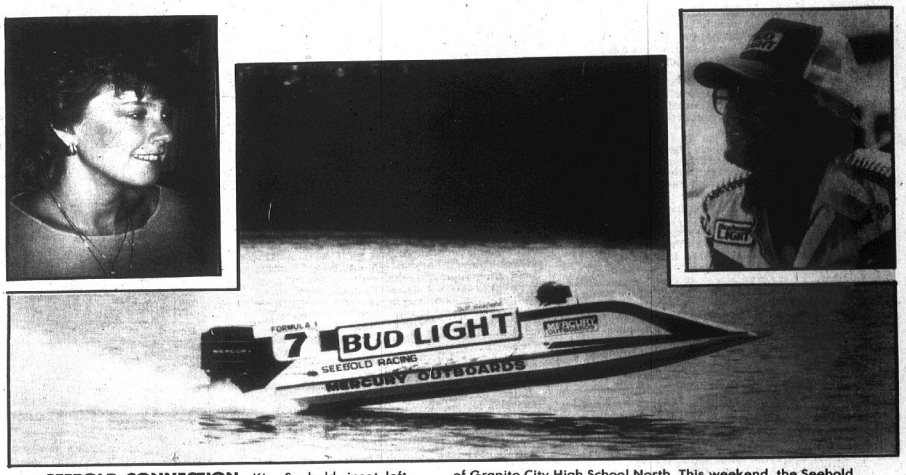

There might be some who think racing powerboats at phenomenal rates of speed is slightly off the mark, too. Kim says she was tempted a year ago to race powerboats. A woman had asked her to co-drive with her in Europe.

"I thought about it very seriously," says Kim. "Then I heard she had a bad accident. After that, I changed my mind."

It didn't take much changing. The biggest reason Kim wants to stay in one piece is Adam. He's her son, aged four and one-half years.

As her son, he's also a Seebold. The desire to race powerboats is in his blood, too. Kim says she won't stand in his way if he wants to race boats when he gets older.

In fact, he already has a head start. "Yeah, he has lots of race boats," says Kim. "But they're limited to the bath tub — for now."

SEEBOLD CONNECTION. Kim Seebold, inset left, daughter of Bill Seebold, world champion powerboat racer, inset right, says she would have liked to follow in her famous father's footsteps when she was younger, but now has doubts. Kim Seebold, a hair stylists in Granite City, is a 1979 graduate of Granite City High School North. This weekend, the Seebold clan will reunite in Fenton for the the St. Louis Grand Prix Powerboat Championships at George Winter Park in Fenton. Above, Bill Seebold speeds his way to another one of his many powerboat victories.

Dierdorf named Grand Prix marshal

ST. LOUIS — Dan Dierdorf, of Football Cardinals fame and now turned sportscaster, will perform Grand Marshal duties at the Busch World Championship Grand Prix Powerboat Races at St. Louis County's George Winter Park in Fenton on Saturday, Aug. 10 and Sunday, Aug. 11.

Dierdorf's first claim to fame is his outstanding career with the Football Cardinals. But when it came time to hang up the shoes, like all great athletes must someday do, he went into radio and TV broadcasting to provide sports color. He now has his own program on KMOX Radio 1120.

Another successful venture since his retirement from football is his elegant restaurant located in Westport Plaza. He owns this jointly with former teammate Jim Hart. Their plans include opening a second restaurant in the newly renovated Union Station in the near future.

Dierdorf will be on hand for opening ceremonies on both days of racing, Saturday, Aug. 10 and Sunday, Aug. 11. He will stay for a time after the grand parade to chat and give autographs to his many friends, especially the kids.

As in the past, the net proceeds from the event will be used for charitable and community service projects.

Opening ceremonies are scheduled for 11:30 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 10. This will be followed by Mod-VP time trials, first two heats of SST-140 boats, and the first two heats of the Mod-VP World Championship.

Sunday, Aug. 11, will see opening ceremonies begin at 11:45 a.m. The day's racing will include two more heats of the Mod-VP World Championship, the winner being determined by the best three heats out of four. The SST-140 Class will run their final heat, and the champ boats will run two qualifying heats prior to their feature 50-lap final.

Prices are $6 in advance and $8 at the gate. All tickets are good for both days of racing with children under 10 free. There is ample free parking.

Tickets may be purchased at Ticketmasters, Dial Tix, Dierbergs, Schnuck Markets, Johnny's Super Market and participating boat dealers in the St. Louis area.

Stars seeking women cagers

WANTED: Women basketball players... high school graduates... some skills... experience preferred but not necessary... immediate openings.

By GREGG OCHOA
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College women's basketball program is suffering from an identity crisis, but Ted Daniels hopes to change that.

"Nobody really knows we are out here," said Daniels, GCC's new cage coach. "The other day I talked to a girl from Highland and she said 'Granite City, what?'

"That makes it pretty tough."

With fall classes less than three weeks away, Daniels finds himself in an uncomfortable position; he desparately needs players for the women's basketball team.

THE COACH has a few prospects from the 16 Metro East area high schools he as contacted, but no signees yet.

"I got some names from coaches, athletic directors and even principals, but because of the lateness of my being hired a lot of the girls have already committed." Daniels said.

Daniels became Granite City Center's second women's baseketball coach in May hoping bring the program out of the ashes. In 1983 women's basketball was dropped because of lack of interest.

The task has not been an easy one.

"I KNEW it would be tough," Daniels said. "When I was officiating last April and May had I known (about the job), I would have been looking for talent more closely."

Daniels came to GCC after almost three full seasons at Lovejoy High School coaching boys basketball. He compiled a 46-36 record in almost, three full seasons.

Currently Daniels has been knocking on doors and spending long hours on the telephone.

"Right now is a critical period. Everybody's vacations are almost over and maybe those young women who had planned to attend a four-year school ran into some problems. That's were I can help."

DANIELS said he plans to be at the junior college Monday when registration begins to talk to some students. He also plans to hold an open gym after Aug. 26..

"I haven't got a sole. I need some players." Daniels is looking for "young ladies who have played some high school basketball, but haven't selected a college yet and would like to have some of the financial responsibilities differed."

Daniels has seven athletic financial grants and aides to offer recruits. They can be for basketball or a combination of basketball and volleyball.

DESPITE getting such a late start, Daniels is confident he will be able to field a team by Nov. 18, the Stars first scheduled contest against Rend Lake.

"We have some advantages (beacuse the season starts late in the year)," Daniels said. "We may get some players who just come by, but I would like to have seven or eight to be the nucleus of the team.

"I would like to have some of my own people because it would help for next year."

Daniels said the biggest problem he found in recruiting is no one knows the program at GCC exists.

"ULTIMATELY the key is going out and making yourself available," Daniels said.

Although Daniels does not live in this area (he resides in O'Fallon), he does not view that as a major problem.

"Once it is known we are out there, we be able to recruit.

"I had a couple of people who were interested, but their biggest fear was they didn't think they could play basketball (on the junior college level)," Daniels said "I would like them to let me make that decision. If they give the effort and they have the heart, then they can play on any level."

DESPITE the early recruiting problems, Daniels is keeping his thoughts high.

"I have been down several times," the coach admitted. "My family has helped, telling me to stay with it. My parents even called from West Virginia to offer encouragement. And, I have faith in God that he will be there when you need him."

The key, Daniels said, is attitude. The Stars have 12 games on tap and Daniels is hoping the schedule might swell to 24 contests. He is confident he will find the players to wear the school's silver and blue.

"I'm going to order uniforms for 15, a full squad," Daniels said. "I'm going about this in a positive attitude."

The changing ways of professional baseball

In the Sportlight

By Alan L. Gerstenecker
Executive Sports Editor

The Major League Baseball players' strike didn't last as long as many thought it would. The wizardry of Peter Ueberroth made sure of that.

It's a good thing that Ueberroth, and not three Granite City youths, were at the bargaining table. For if they had, you can bet that Monday night's baseball game would have been the last this season. These three guys are a lot less forgiving.

For this column, I wanted an amateur's opinion of professionals; Little Leaguers' opinions of their striking Major League counterparts. About noon Wednesday, I spotted a small group ballplayers at Worthen Park.

Surprisingly, or maybe it's just a sign of the times, these three Granite City youths, who play baseball in the Wilson Park Little League, didn't side on the strike matter with their Major League counterparts.

Nope. These guys were with the owners all the way.

"I don't think they (the players) should get as much as they do," said Shawn Tripp, the first baseman for Hardee's Juvenile Division team. "I think there should be an effort to drop their salaries. It's (high salaries), this talk of pensions and everything (arbitration) is hurting the game."

Then came his clincher.

"Instead, I think a standard should be established; a standard of salaries which is the same throughout the league. A rookie should get so much. A second-year player should get so much more and so on. They're paying one or two players too much (and every other player less) and everybody knows it takes more than one or two players to win a pennant."

Pretty savvy kid, huh.

Step up Chris Nolan and take your shot. Nolan, a teammate of Tripp's, is a third baseman for Hardee's.

"I think the whole thing, the strike and everything is dumb. They (the players) already get enough money," Nolan said. "After all, a strike does nothing but hurt the fans anyway; those people who pay their salaries."

Then Nolan offered a sterile, purist explanation of the national pasttime.

"Baseball is just for fun, that's the way it used to be. That's the reason I play. Somewhere along the way the (Major League) players lost sight of that," Nolan said.

Then Nolan's teammate, Jody Ritchie, the team's center fielder, offered even a more profound comment.

"I don't know how it could be done, but I don't think that professional baseball players should get paid at all," Ritchie said. "They started playing baseball for the fun of it (when the pros were children) and I think it should still be that way. That would be baseball."

Whew! That's a mouthful.

These kids, who haven't had a taste of high school yet, seemed to be very opinionated.

It was interesting to hear remarks from these three amateur baseball players. And, I must admit, their reactions were quite surprising.

Heck, I thought all kids that age were in love with professional baseball and the men who played the game. I was. Perhaps my fondest memory was getting my picture taken with Johnny Bench on camera day at Busch Stadium in 1971.

Back then, baseball was purer, I suppose.

Back then players didn't stretch their stirrup socks to the knee; there were .350 hitters with $30,000 paychecks.

Going back a little farther, the 1967 World Champion Cardinals, for example, had a total team payroll (including managers and coaches) was less than $1 million. Nowadays, that would barely cover Ozzie Smith's salary to the All-Star break.

"One more question guys," I asked. "How mnay times have you been to the ballpark this year and do you think you'll go again this year, after the strike?"

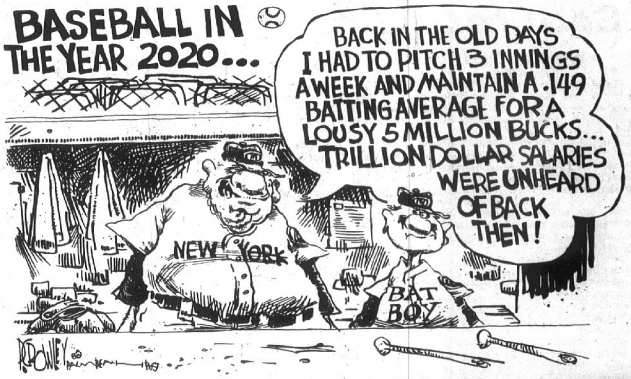

"Nine or 10 times," Tripp said. "Yeah, I'll go back and I think so will the rest of the fans."

"Five times," Nolan said. "I think the fans will go back without hesitating. By now they're getting used to strikes."

"I think I've seen seven games this season," Ritchie said. "Sure, like the rest of them, I'll go back. I'd like to see the Cubs series."

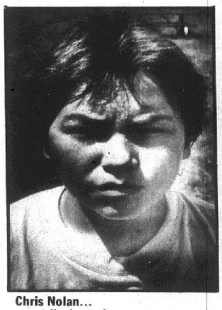

Maybe baseball hasn't changed that much after all.

Geisler named assistant coach

Drew Geisler of Granite City has accepted a position of assistant football coach at Danville High School.

Geisler, 22, is a graduate of Granite City South and Eastern Illinois University where he lettered in track, running the 800 and 1,500-meters.

He will be one of seven assistant coaches at Danville under head coach Nate Cunningham. Last season, Danville was 7-3.

"I was really surprised," Geisler said of the job. "I don't think the transition between track to football will be that hard with my background in athletics. Like I told the coach I'm a good person to talk to about conditioning."

In addition to his coaching duties, Geisler will teach freshmen and sophomore social studies.

I like Ted Williams

I had a sickening feeling in the pit of my stomach that mid-summer morning in late 1950 when my Sports Editor, Sidney C. (Sid) Keener, a Jimmy Walker look-a-like, called me to his desk at the Star-Times.

Keener outlined a plan, or rather an assignment he had for me that baseball season.

"Alvin, my boy," he says, "I'm going to give you a break. During the rest of the season, I've drawn up a list of baseball players I want you to interview and then do personal type of stories about. Now, I don't wish you to talk to them at the ball park (it was then Sportsman's Park), but at their hotels. And at times of your choosing and not at theirs. I want you to find out what kind of guys they are when you wake them up while they are sleeping, say, after playing late the night before."

Pausing, he threw his head back and laughed roaringly, no doubt as he saw the look on my face, which I'm sure was one of sheer distress and fear. As if to then build my confidence, he added: "These last four or five years, you have done a great job in writing your 'Prep Players of the Week' players up. I now want to see what you can do with the pros."

As he said that, he handed me the list of pro baseball players he wanted me to interview. In the top five were the names of the New York Yankees' Joseph Paul (Joltin' Joe) DiMaggio, and Theodore Samuel (Ted) Williams of the Boston Red Sox, known by many as Back Pay Billionaires.

You'll note that I spoke of fear when I was given the assignment of interviewing some of the game of baseball's most illustrious and shining stars. But, I must set the record straight: there was only one of the stars on Keener's list that worried me. That I feared doing. And, that was Williams.

If you see Williams now, he appears very pleasant and easy to talk to. Most of the times that he's interviewed now he's in the act of fishing, a sport he dearly loves. Mostly, in Florida.

But, back there in the late 1940's, he was a holy terror.

And, he had a running feud and a running battle with sports reporters, both electonic and printed. He had made it crystal clear, or even more so, that he was sore at the press. And, wouldn't talk.

I mentioned this to Keener. He laughted at me and said "you'll work it out somehow."

DiMaggio, on the other hand, the darling of New York and the rest of the U.S.A., who was everyone's Mr. Nice Guy, would be a piece of cake.

Williams, one of the game of baseball's greatest hitters and the last batter to hit .400 (.406) for a season, had picked up his grudge against the reporters growing out of the 1946 World Series between Williams' Boston and the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Red Sox, with one of the greatest lineup of hitters ever in the Major League, was paced by the great Williams who, by the way, finished a career in The Bigs with a .344 batting average. At bat, the Red Stockings were truly awesome.

Going into the series of '46, Boston was a heavy favorite to win, and in a short and sweet series.

But, the bookies didn't figure on the Red Birds' first year manager, Eddie Dyer. And the tactic Dyer would use to practically silence Williams' bat. Dyer played on Williams' pride...and won, in seven games on the great dash of Enos (Country) Slaughter from first base to score on Harry Walker's hit to right field with the winning run.

What Dyer did was to shift nearly all his defense to the right side of the diamond and dared Williams to try and hit through it.

Williams took the dare and wouldn't change his batting habit or stance with the dourful result that he hit a piddingly .200 for the entire seven games. Just a lousy five hits in 24 times at bat. The Birds' Harry Walker led all series hitters with a .412. Bobby Doerr led the Sox with a .409 average.

It isn't an overstatement to say that the Gentlemen of the Press tore Ted Williams up and down for his stubborness and practically accussed him of losing the Series for Boston.

Williams took a long time forgetting the Series of '46. In fact, I don't think that he's ever forgotten them, even now.

Well, I drew Joltin' Joe DiMaggio for my first interview. The Yankees were in St. Louis for a three-game series with the Browns.

When I called Joe's room from the lobby of the Chase Hotel I got a rude surprise from Everyone's Mister Good Guy. DiMaggio turned me down colder than you can hardly even imagine; no ifs and buts about it. It was a brutally frank and absolute "no."

A couple of days later, the Red Sox came to St. Louis. The night before, Boston had played an extra-inning game with the Chicago White Sox and team's C & A (Chicago and Alton) train was late in arriving at Union Staton and got the players at the Chase at dawn's early light.

So, you can easily imagine my feelings when I arrived at the Chase and called up to Ted's room from the lobby phone. I didn't think he'd talk to me just to say "hello," not alone agreeing for me to interview him.

Johnny Pesky, who was his 'roomie,' answered the phone and promptly put Williams on. I couldn't believe my ears when he failed to chew me out and, instead, asked me to "come on right up and join him for breakfast" which they were having served in their room. There was only one condition: "I'll not talk about my batting in the '46 World Series," he snapped and that was that.

I did a piece about his pasttime of fishing. A sport, incidentally, which I know nothing about. Funny thing. Joe Dimaggio is still the "nice guy" and Williams hardly ever will talk to reporters.

Doty wins feature

By JOE SENTER
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Brad Doty won the 30-lap feature event in the All-Star Circuit of Champions Sprint Car race last Saturday at Tri-City Speedway.

Doty, one of the high-point drivers on the circuit, finished ahead of 26 other cars entered in the race.

The second day which included a 40-lap race was postponed due to rain, and has been rescheduled later next month.

A highlight of last Saturday's racing was a new speed record set by Jack Hewitt. His time of 19.17 seconds for a single qualifying lap bettered the old record of 19.21 seconds set by Bobby Allen of Hanover, Pa. in June.

HEWITT took second place in the feature. Third place went to Fred Linder, while Andy Hillenburgh was fourth, Kenny Jacobs was fifth and Todd Kane took sixth.

Linder was ahead until the 13th lap when Doty took the lead and held on for the victory.

Bohnenstiehl family reunion set Aug. 18

The 49th annual Bohnenstiehl family reunion will be held at noon Sunday, Aug. 18, at Senior Citizens Center, Troy, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Marchette are chairmen of the reunion committee and will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maedge.

Descendents of Jacob and Margaretha Voese Bohnenstiehl who left Neuhofen Rheinbaiven, Germany, on April 8, 1842, to settle in the St. Clair-Madison counties area, have met almost every year (except the war years) since the annual reunion was held at Ebel's Park in Troy in 1936.

All descendents and their families are welcome at the potluck dinner and program.

The historian is requesting updated information and pictures to add to the present scrapbook. This information may be given to Mrs. Charles Maedge at 667-9319.

Plans will be made for the golden anniversary celebration in 1986, the chairman said.

Illinoisans fight Africa's famine

A statewide African famine relief program has been launched.

Illinois Agriculture for Africa will bring citizens together in the largest single-state effort of its type in the nation.

Gov. James R. Thompson unveiled the plans Tuesday, saying, "All of us have been shocked by the famine in Africa. More than 35 million people will go to sleep tonight in Africa desperately hungry and without much hope.

"OUR FARMERS and our people have always been generous. I am confident this voluntary program will help send thousands of tons of food overseas, thereby helping many thousands of people live longer."

The program is a cooperative effort among the Office of the Governor, the Illinois Department of Agriculture and World Vision Relief Organizations.

Thompson said, "Illinois' efficient farmers are able to provide the necessary food products, but help from the non-agricultural sector, in the form of monetary donations, will be needed if the effort is to be a success."

The governor also addressed transportation and distribution difficulties in the African nations.

"DESPITE THE MANY reports regarding spoilage of food products on the dock in Africa, great care has been taken by the organizers of this program to assure delivery of the food donated from Illinois," he said.

"A careful audit procedure for every single bag of grain has been established. We are willing to do whatever it takes to guarantee that the generosity of the people of Illinois reaches the hands of those who need it."

The program will accept two forms of donations. Cash contributions will be collected at designated collection points and grain will be accepted from the state's farmers at their local elevators.

ALL GRAIN DONATIONS will be sold at current price levels at the end of each week by the elevator operators and the proceeds will be collected by the Illinois Department of Agriculture. The donations will be recorded and tabulated by the department.

The money will then be used to purchase Corn-Soy-Milk (CSM) processed corn meal and other forms of fortified corn meal products from either Lauhoff Grain Company or Illinois Cereal Mills, Paris, Ill.

Illinois Agriculture for Africa will be responsible for transporting the food products to an American port for shipment. World Vision will be responsible for shipping and distribution to Africa.

Donations will be accepted from now until Nov. 1, 1985. The first shipment will leave Illinois when enough donations have been collected to warrant shipment.

"THE TIMING of this project is excellent," Robert Ainsworth, World Vision Relief Organization director, said in accepting the state's offer.

"Despite reports of spoilage reaching the media during recent weeks, our staff in the field indicates surpluses on the docks are dwindling rapidly. This gracious offer of relief will reach the starving in Africa at a time when a severe shortage of available food is expected to occur."

Donations will be accepted at all grain elevators, county Cooperative Extension and Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service offices and the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

STATE DIRECTOR of Agriculture Larry Werries urged farmers to respond.

"The farmers of Illinois are facing difficult times," Werries said. "But the people of Africa are facing a difficult struggle for basic survival.

"Illinois Agriculture for Africa offers an opportunity for farmers, along with the rest of the citizens of Illinois, to join together in a tremendous humanitarian effort to meet a critical need.

"WORLD VISION was asked to assist in the operation because of its expertise in dealing with African government officials, its transportation capabilities and its longstanding commitment to feeding the world's hungry."

The general public may obtain further information by contacting: Illinois Agriculture for Africa, c/o Illinois Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 3597, Springfield Ill. 62708-3597 (phone 217-785-8213).

Computer study approved by council

GRANITE CITY — A study of the city's current computer system was approved by aldermen Tuesday night.

The study, costing between $5,000 and $6,000, will be performed by Dr. John A. Sharp, associate professor of the Department of Management Information Systems at the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Business.

City Comptroller Joe Miklovic told aldermen the expenditure is listed in the 1985-86 budget under the computer purchase line item.

Miklovic said Sharp will evaluate the present system, along with what type of computer capabilities are needed for increased services, such as computerized sewer and ambulance billing.

He said the professor then will help the city decide what type of computer purchase would best serve its needs.

Miklovic said Sharp is not affiliated with any computer company and has helped other cities, such as Clayton, Mo., in similar studies.

GCC fall course teaches students financial planning

Most people spend more time planning their summer vacation than they do their finances, according to Dave Hopkins.

Hopkins is the assistant trust officer at Central Bank in Granite City and the instructor for a personal finance course at Granite City Campus.

Personal Finance (BUS 117), a three-credit hour course, will be from 7 to 9:50 p.m. Tuesdays at the Granite City Campus, 4950 Maryville Road.

"This is a class in financial planning," Hopkins said. "The purpose of the course primarily is to instill in people the need for planning their finances and understanding what financial planning is."

The course will explain how to prepare a budget, he said.

"Whether you say you would like to buy a Camaro next year, or you would like to set long-range goals for retirement, you need to understand financial planning," he said.

Financial planning is learning how to set short and long range goals for yourself, he said.

Financial planning is a lot like planning a vacation, he said.

"Financial planning is designing a road map," Hopkins said. "You start at one point with specific goals and objectives. Then you can look back to see if you are successful in attaining interim goals you have set on the way to your desired end.

"If you start a vacation with no plans, you won't get very far," he said. "Most of us run our financial lives that way. If we don't plan, we won't know where we are going.

"If you start on the right path, you will be more successful," he said.

"I worked out a financial plan for myself when I was 20 years old," he said. "It has changed since then. Our lives are dynamic. Our financial plans are dynamic too. They all change. Our plans must change with our needs and the financial climate.

"Financial planning can be as simple as writing down a budget and working out a plan with pencil and paper," Hopkins said. "Or it can be more complicated. It can be for a corporate executive who deals with the growth of his investments and the education of his children.

"A more complicated plan would require the use of a computer. It consolidates information and makes it possible to use different methods of analyzing income and estate taxes. Computers are good at manipulating numbers and storing and calling up information."

Students will learn the basics of financial planning in the class, he said. They will be able to understand how to make their own financial plan, which could cost between $250 and $2,000 from a professional financial planner.

The course will include such information as setting a budget, determining your net worth and understanding financial statements.

"So many people wonder where their money went at the end of the month," Hopkins said. "After this course, I hope people will be able to say they know where it went. They will be able to know if they have to increase their income or reduce their expenses to meet their goals.

"The class will also help people understand how to evaluate financial products, such as large capital purchases," he said.

"When buying a car or house, people need to know what the difference one point of interest will mean. When they find out that it could mean thousands of dollars over four or five years, they will realize the importance of shopping for interest rates for large capital purchases.

"We will also talk about different types of investments," he said. "We will deal with bank-type investments, such as CD's and money markets, and outside investments, such as mutual funds, stocks and bonds. We also will discuss investments that will be the cheapest ways to pay for your children's education."

The class also will teach students what types of insurance are best for them. Hopkins will teach them how to buy a product that is suitable for their individual needs.

"People need to know how to buy life insurance and not be sold life insurance," he said. "They do this by finding what they want and buying it."

The class will deal with what investment risk is and how someone determines how much risk they want to assume, he said. When buying investments, people need to understand what guarantees may be missing from investments that pay more than others.

SIUE seminar helps businessmen develop products

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will hold a seminar Wednesday, Aug. 14, for owners of small businesses who are interested in expanding their knowledge in the area of researching, developing, producing and marketing high technology products.

Sponsored by the Center for Advanced Manufacturing and Production and the School of Engineering, the seminar is scheduled in the conference area of the University Center from 8:15 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The seminar is designed to assist business owners or individuals who are interested in developing their own new product ideas or ideas from other sources.

The initial seminar will include an overview of the major concerns that arise when new products are commercialized. Based on the concerns of participants, more indepth seminars will be scheduled in the future.

Topics to be considered during the seminar include: high technology research and development for small businesses, forecasting markets, protecting patents and copyrights, technology licensing agreements, generating venture capital, federal/state transfer and assistance programs and starting-up production.

Speakers for the seminar will be recognized experts in their fields. They include: Sidney Ring, local patent attorney, Rodney Goldstein, partner in the Frontenac Venture Co., Hal Smith, administrator of the technology commercialization program for the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs in Springfield; William A. Jacobs, vice president of the Polymer Concrete Co.; and Luke Snell, Kenneth Buchert, and Arthur Prell, members of the university faculty.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Van Roekel at 1-692-2500 or Gail Pinsker at 1-692-2166.
